

My First R Markdown Document

Danielle J. Navarro

10/02/2021

This section of the document is plain markdown. I'm adding italics and boldface text in the same way I would in any other markdown document.

- I am adding a list
- in the same way also

In the next section I am going to add a “chunk” of R code:

```
print("hello world!")
```

```
[1] "hello world!"
```

You can see that (by default) the “knitted” document shows my code first, which is then followed by the output that R generates when this code is “executed”.